“SOCIAL MEDIA: APPLICATIONS TO TEACHING AND RESEARCH”

Guest Presenter: Dr. Vanessa Dennen, Associate Professor of Educational Psychology & Learning Systems, Florida State University

Abstract: Dr. Dennen has been investigating online behaviors, online discourse, and communities of practice for over a decade. She most recently designed and offered a professional development MOOC entitled, “Social Media for Active Learning”. Dr. Dennen will lead a 2-hour workshop to share ways of incorporating social media into teaching, research, and professional development. Specifically, she will share a number of social media tools and address issues such as types of learning activities that are fostered or enhanced by these tools, conditions and guidelines for social media integration, student preference and support issues, developing personal learning networks, and ways of using social media to answer research questions and collect data.
